Prototypes to Ystar:

The Ghoulgarb FullSuit – created with compounds from the northern Hevea orotoanensis tree, it covers the body, arms and legs to the subject's wrists and ankles and includes an integrated hood. Though durable, the material is light and flexible so the subject suffers no loss of mobility. During its manufacture this non-porous material is steeped in a sensational blend of Tatmekoan waterfalls, kiwi, honeysuckle, tulip, lilies, Kahawai rose and driftwood, so it not only covers unsightly wounds and putrescences, but eradicates the offensive smells of putrefaction. With a Ghoulgarb Fullsuit your undead armies will look dashing on the battlefield and smell flower fresh on guard duty. Ghoulgarb Fullsuits come in a variety of tailored looks from evening formal wear to sensible, around-the-palace sentry jumpsuits.

Did you ever declare a Capital? I can't find anything in my notes.
